THE LIVE STOCK EXPOSITION.

nternational Show at Chicago a Most The International Live Stock Exposition stands to-day a monument bearing witness to the rapidity and stability of American enterprise and achievement. Scarcely four years ago the new-born and fondly cherished ideas of the Union Stock Yard and Transit Co. bore fruit in the first International. At the last Exposition in December, 1902, there were gathered together in competition horses, cattle, sheep and swine from nearly every state in the Union and from Canada and Europe; and these the product of the most careful breeding
